PARADE OF HOLY NAME SOCIETIES.

One of the greatest demonstrations of religious significance ever witnessed in the national capital took place yesterday when members of the Holy Name societies of the archdiocese of Baltimore, several thousand strong, under the auspices of the Holy Name Union of the District of Columbia, marched up Pennsylvania avenue, from the Capitol to the White House, thence to the Washington Monument, led by the Holy Name Society of St. Martin's Parish, Baltimore, their colorbearers, P. T. Niland and James D. Flynn, carrying the Papal flag and the Stars and Stripes side by side.

From a balcony in the New Willard the parade was reviewed by Most Rev. Diomedes Falconio, apostolic delegate; Right Rev. Owen B. Corrigan, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, together with other dignitaries of the church.

Upon arriving at the monument grounds the united societies joined in the singing of "America," and addresses were made by Rev. Edward Fitzgerald, O. R. prior of St. Vincent Ferrer's Church, New York city, who spoke on "Citizenship and Practical Religion," and Michael I. Weller, of St. Peter's parish, Washington, who spoke on behalf of the laymen of the organization. The meeting closed with the singing of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

Monsignor Falconio closed the exercises by conferring the papal blessing. The members of the Holy Name Society of Alexandria participated in the parade. They left this city on two special trains at 12:45 p. m. and returned late in the evening. Many Alexandrians went to Washington in the afternoon to witness the parade and the exercises.

NEGRO PURSUED BY A MOB.

William C. Payne, colored, principal of the William McKinley Industrial School, of this city, who went to Frederick, Md., to organize a branch of the National Liberty League, a negro political organization, was pursued by a mob Saturday night from a hall he had rented for a meeting. He took refuge in the office of a negro physician. Police were called for his protection. Two negro preachers and the doctor in whose office Payne took refuge on Saturday joined in a public statement in which they charged that the mob was set against Payne by politicians because it was believed that he purposed advocating the election of David J. Lewis, the democratic candidate for Congress. The statement declares: "When political headmen incite the criminal element of the negroes of our city to mob and create disorder, because our race holds a different political opinion, it is time to call a halt."

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY.

The Anti-Tuberculosis Society is most enthusiastic over the promised success of the lunch which is to be given at the Elks' Hall, Thursday, November 10. The hours, 12 to 2:30, are such as to suit all—the business man and the society woman. The attractive menu which suggests a Thanksgiving dinner, and the reasonable cost, makes it possible for everyone to come. The ladies, realizing that some busy housekeepers may be unable to come to the lunch, have arranged to serve afternoon tea, from four to five o'clock. During the afternoon home-made pickles, preserves and jellies will be on sale. Those who have promised pickles and preserves and who have not already sent them in are requested to send them to the Elks' Hall, Thursday morning, November 10, between 9 and 10 o'clock.

ROBBED BY A HIGHWAYMAN.

Mr. Ed Baumgartner was held up and robbed on the Shooter's Hill road, near the Union depot, by a negro shortly after ten o'clock Saturday night. The highwayman secured $12. The negro stopped Mr. Baumgartner and asked him when the next steam train left the depot for Washington. He next requested him to tell him the time, and almost simultaneously stuck a pistol in Mr. Baumgartner's face and demanded his money. This was turned over to him, after which the footpad vanished. Mr. Baumgartner says he does not know the name of the negro, but that the officer seen him in Alexandria. The police are searching for the highwayman.

ON A VISIT TO ALEXANDRIA.

Mrs. Melissa Purdy Henry, whose father was closely associated with Gen. Washington during the revolutionary period is in Alexandria. Mrs. Henry, who is visiting her nephew, Mr. William Purdy Graves, is in her seventy-eighth year, and made the trip from her home in Poolville, N. Y., a journey of fourteen hours, necessitating four changes of cars, entirely alone. Her only anxiety in undertaking the trip was that she might be cut off from provisions, and to guard against such a catastrophe she supplied herself with food sufficient for two days. Mrs. Henry and her sister, Mrs. Esther Ann Shepardson, who is three years her junior, both belong to the Mohawk Valley Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which includes among its members five "real daughters." She was presented with a gold spoon by the national society—a gift made to all original daughters—and always carries it with her. Mrs. Henry is keenly interested in the present political situation in New York. She is a good talker, and as ready to discuss the questions of the day as to relate the thrilling experiences of her father while he was associated with Washington and later when he saw three years' active service with Baldwin's regiment. Mrs. Henry is the oldest of four children of Jeremiah Purdy by his second marriage, which he contracted at the age of 71. He died in 1842.

In using a trestle on the Great Falls and Old Dominion Railway west of Rosslyn, Alexandria county, Saturday night, to make a shortcut to his boarding house, Enrico Cocopson, about 30 years old, employed by the Columbia Granite Company, made a misstep in the darkness, fell and was drowned in a few inches of water below. The verdict of a jury summoned by Dr. Stuart P. Ashton, the county coroner, which met near the scene of the accident yesterday morning, was to the effect that the unfortunate man was stunned by the fall and drowning followed. The body was brought to Mr. B. Whetley's undertaking establishment, in this city, after the inquest, and unless claimed in a day or two will be buried at the expense of the county.

Arrangements were made to convey Father Grindel to a medical institution in New Orleans, and he was put aboard a passenger train. After the cars were under full headway Father Grindel broke away from the two officers and took up a defiant stand on the rear platform of a coach. His guards grappled with him and the three were mixed in a huddled mass on the lower steps of the platform while the train was speeding fifty miles an hour. The attention of the conductor was finally attracted and the train was brought to a stop barely in time to prevent the priest and his caping in from being crushed to death under the wheels. Father Grindel was placed in a New Orleans asylum later in the day.
